November 2020

Pastor Dawn Pederson
Projecting Christ to All Generations

“Give thanks to the Lord, for the Lord is good, for God’s mercy endures forever.” Psalm 107:1
“Let them give thanks to you, Lord, for your steadfast love and your wonderful works for all people.” Psalm 107:8

When I looked at my cell phone this morning and saw the date, October 28, I asked, “How can this be?” October is almost gone and yet I don’t think we are sad to turn the calendar over to a new month. The months of this pandemic drag on and on, but with each flip of the calendar we are hopeful that we are that much closer to having a vaccine. We are thankful for all who work on a vaccine and ask God’s blessings upon them and their work.

As we turn the page of the calendar over to November, Thanksgiving still comes to mind. What will Thanksgiving be like this year? Is it possible to give thanks amid this pandemic? How will we celebrate Thanksgiving this year? What new ways will we celebrate Thanksgiving and give thanks this year?

As I ponder these questions, I am reminded of a beloved hymn found in the praise and thanksgiving section of our hymnals, “Now Thank We All Our God.” Do you know the story of the hymn and how it came to be?

Martin Rinkart was a Lutheran pastor in Germany at the time of the Thirty Years’ War. The town where he lived and served was a refuge for many and quickly became overcrowded. Rinkart and his family took in refugees even though he struggled to provide for his own family. On top of the Thirty Years’ War there was a severe plague. Among the many who died were Rinkart’s wife and neighboring clergy. He was the only surviving pastor in the community, conducting as many as 50 funerals in a day, more than 4,000 funerals in that year. Through it all, Rinkart remained well. Daily he looked to his Savior, thanking God for the blessings he still had. Amid this grief, loss, suffering, and death Rinkart wrote the words “Nun danket alle Gott” or “Now Thank We All Our God.” What began as a family prayer before meals has become a beloved hymn. With the exception of “A Mighty Fortress is Our God” it is the most widely sung hymn in Germany. How, amid all of the pain and sorrow around him and within his own family, could Rinkart give thanks? How will we give thanks this Thanksgiving?

However we celebrate this Thanksgiving, whether with a feast and family or a simple meal and alone, together let us pause and give thanks. Let us continue to look to Jesus, the Savior of the world and thank God for the blessings we have been given.

Consider sharing the words to Rinkart’s hymn as your table blessing on Thanksgiving.

*Now thank we all our God with hearts and hands and voices, who wondrous things has done, in whom this world rejoices;
who, from our mother’s arms, has blest us on our way with countless gifts of love, and still is ours today.*

*Oh, may this bounteous God through all our life be near us,
with ever joyful hearts, and blessed peace to cheer us,
and keep us all in grace, and guide us when perplexed,
and free us from all harm in this world and the next.*

*All praise and thanks to God the Father now be given,
the Son and Spirit blest, who reign in highest heaven,
the one eternal God, whom earth and heav’n adore;
for thus it was, is now, and shall be evermore. Amen.*

With praise and thanks to God, Pastor Dawn

Mission & Community

God's Work Our Hands

is a world-wide effort created by the ELCA to provide members with opportunities to help their neighbors in new ways and take risks in reaching out. Even during challenging times, we can continue to live faithfully and serve joyfully.

God's Work Our Hands will not look like it has in past years due to COVID 19. However, that does not mean we cannot reach out to our neighbors in need by demonstrating God's love through our actions. The Board of Mission would like to encourage families to participate in individual projects during the month of October. Our lives are busy and can be especially stressful during these unsettling times. But focusing on others and being resolved to love and care for them can help us see the world through a lens of gratitude, connectedness and balance. Below are some ideas that may work for your family to participate in during the next few weeks. This list could be endless and is only limited by your creativity.

Food or monetary donations to the Northeast Iowa Food Bank...

Did you know that a $1 donation can buy $10 worth of food

Donating school supplies or underwear to ongoing mission projects....

(containers for donations are at the church)

Making positive yard signs or window messages

Writing a letter to a resident at the Sunset Home or Willow Winds care facilities

 Pulling weeds at a local park or the library or city hall

 Volunteering at the Humane Society or adopting a pet

Writing family members letters of encouragement and/or notes of gratitude

Dear Members of St. Peter

Our long, strange year continues as we move into fall and cooler weather. It is also harvest time, when we recognize our rich bounty from the earth, and think about giving thanks – and sharing that bounty. In this context, it is also the time of year we at St. Peter think about church giving in particular.

This year has been different for all of us. We have held together well during these difficult months, first with only online worship, then outdoor worship, very pleasant with only a few weather cancellations, and now indoor worship with alterations for safety from this frightening virus. Through it all, our faithful congregation has continued to provide financial support for our church! This has been wonderfully affirming – and important, because despite our absence from actual worship in the building, some expenses continue: salaries, maintenance, upgrades to internal systems. We have been fortunate to see some savings too.

As we continue down our uncertain path, sustained giving is vital. It would be easy to fall behind with the discouraging news and absence of reassuring routines and activities, but it is important to remember that not only do we have our own church expenses, we also see greater-than-usual needs in the community that call for our gifts. Of course, there are many ways to give - contributing to collections of food and clothing, keeping in contact with those shut-in or alone, as well as monetary support. But financial giving remains vital to our church's well being too! So, we continue to encourage planned and automated giving to allow realistic budgeting for the coming year. We are confident that each of us can and will do all we can to keep our congregation both socially and financially strong.

Pen Pal Volunteer Thank You

During the past two years, the Board of Mission along with church members have presented programs at Willow Winds. Due to pandemic restrictions the past eight months, we have missed the activities and our interactions. To try and keep our connection with residents, we implemented a new note-writing project. Thanks to the 21 folks who offered to be paired up with residents. We're hopeful that when the virus is over, our community volunteers will be able to visit with their special residents in person.

Waverly church will dedicate monument to orphans buried in church cemetery WAVERLY – St. Paul’s Lutheran Church & School in Waverly will dedicate a monument honoring seven orphaned children buried in the church cemetery on All Saints Sunday, Nov. 1. The service will begin at 1 pm at the cemetery, 605 12th St. SE off Bremer Ave. Social distancing and masks are required to protect all who wish to attend.

The orphans, who died between 1904 and 1948, were residents of the Lutheran Children’s Home in Waverly, which now operates as the Bremwood campus of Lutheran Social Services in Iowa. Although their names are listed on the headstones, there is no mention of the Children’s Home, which provided them with sustenance and nurture.

Jim and Carla Janssen of Waverly learned of the orphan graves during a Sunday morning coffee conversation at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Waverly with the Rev. Mark Anderson, a member of the Northeastern Iowa Synod staff. As part of a Lenten project, the couple had been challenged to look beyond the walls of their own church to learn about community needs and encourage generosity. Coincidentally, Carla Janssen had worked in the development office at Bremwood, so the Janssens decided to focus their efforts on creating a monument that would tell the story of Lutheran Children’s Home orphans interred at St. Paul’s Cemetery. They raised awareness, spearheaded initial fundraising, found a company to create the monument and partnered with St. Paul’s to complete the project.

“It is exciting to finally have a permanent marker recognizing the important connection shared by the Lutheran Children’s Home and St. Paul’s Lutheran Church & School,” said St. Paul’s director of administration Ron Zelle, who organized the Nov. 1 dedication ceremony.

Orphans from the Children’s Home worshipped at St. Paul’s and received confirmation instruction at the church. The congregation supported the Children’s Home with financial gifts and undertook projects that benefitted the children who lived there. A number of families in the Waverly community trace their heritage to family members who lived at the Children’s Home.

“This monument dedicated to the children who died at the orphanage is both a heartwarming and heartbreaking tribute,” said the Rev. Dr. Arthur Bergren, lead pastor of St. Paul’s Lutheran Church & School. “I am thankful to everyone who made this possible.”

“We greatly appreciate all who have donated to the project,” Zelle added. “We also would like to thank those who assisted with this effort, especially Jim and Carla Janssen, Keith and Sally Schneider and Ryan Tucker.”

Keith Schneider’s father, the late Jacob Schneider, grew up at the Children’s Home and later wrote a book about his experiences. Ryan Tucker operates Tucker Monument in Denver, Iowa, and helped to acquire the monument, design and install it in St. Paul’s Cemetery. Keith and Sally Schneider worked with Tucker to refine the design. The foundation for the monument was laid by John Wuertz, John Meyer and Bill Cashman, all of Waverly.

The project is still in need of just over $500 to be completed. For more information on this project or the ceremony, contact Ron Zelle at ron.zelle@stpaulswaverly.org.
